CLUE LEADS TO STOLEN HORSE

City Marshal Price Finds Richard Gray's Rig While on Another Trail.

HAMILTON, OHIO, MAN HERE

Looking For Horse and Buggy and the Tip Leads to Another Discovery.

All unwittingly City Marshal Price located a stolen horse for Richard Gray this morning for all of which Mr. Gray was very thankful. The stolen property consisted of a good horse, buggy and harness and was found by the marshal in a livery barn in Connersville. As soon as it was learned that the property belonged to Gray word was sent to him immediately and he came and drove the horse back to his home.

Martin Van Gordon of Hamilton, Ohio, came here this morning in search of a stolen horse and buggy which was taken from there recently. He imediately solicited the services of City Marshal Price. They went the rounds here, but were unable to get any trace of the lost property. They finally heard of a stolen rig at Connersville and boarded a car to run down the clue.

They found at the Williams livery stable there that a colored man had left a horse and buggy there Thursday evening and had said that he would call for it Friday evening at eight o'clock. The colored man did not return according to schedule last night and the livery men began to have grave apprehensions. They feared that the horse and buggy was stolen property and had made several inquiries before City Marshal Price arrived this morning.

The colored man who left the rig at the livery stable is said to be "Cole" Black. He has been in the Grey neighborhood working for several weeks and he is now nowhere to be found. He is a roaming disposition and is said to have suddenly disappeared several times and then come back just as mysteriously.

Richard Gray, to whom the stolen property belonged was married last Wednesday afternoon to Miss Lena C. Wycoff at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horley Wycoff, living one mile east of Falmouth. They got their license here Wednesday morning. On Thursday the young couple were back up at the Wycoff home for dinner and did not get back home until late in the evening. When they returned the rig was missing. Gray was here yesterday looking for the horse and buggy. No trace has been found of Black.

HOW ABOUT THIS ONE?

The song hit published on page three of this issue as the weekly feature is one of the best ever offered by the Daily Republican. "Isn't Love a Grand Old Thing," as sung by Clara Belle Jerome in Gus Sohlke's production of "Joy land" is the offering. The comic opera is a comparatively new one and this song is the hit of the show. Earl Robertson will sing "Isn't Love a Grand Old Thing" at the Star-Grand theater tonight.

THE WEATHER

Generally fair tonight and Sunday. Warmer tonight and in south portion Sunday.

APPEAL TO LOCAL PATRONAGE

Windsor Will Set Big Table For the Sunday Dinners and Suppers.

The Windsor hotel is running in full blast now and is enjoying wonderful patronage. They have found that the traveling men have not forgotten the old stand and are all flocking to the place. Wallace & Son, proprietors, will make a special bid for patronage of local people for Sunday dinners and suppers. They will set a table especially good for these two meals and will expect a good local trade.

PLANS FOR NEXT CHARITY BALL

Workers Have Made it an Annual Event For the Night Preceed-Thanksgiving Day.

FINANCIAL REPORT OF LAST

Good Done With Money Can Not be Estimated in Dollars and Cents.

Plans are under way for the big charity ball to be given in the Kramer rink on Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving. The first one was given last May and it was so much of a success that it was decided to make them annual events. In the future on the Wednesday evening before each Thanksgiving the charity ball will be given.

The work is in charge of Mrs. T. W. Betker and Mrs. A. L. Stewart and they expect to begin the sale of tickets soon. This is a worthy cause and the good that has been accomplished through the use of hte money realized from the ball can not be measured in dollars and cents. It is hoped that the dance before Thanksgiving can be made even more profitable than the one last spring. It is also hoped to make it more enjoyable.

Mrs. Betker and Mrs. Stewart have submitted the condensed financial report given below. Because of not wanting to make public the names of persons to whom help was given the account of money spent for charity was not itemized but any one who desires to know to whom help was given may find out by calling at the People's National bank where all checks are open to inspection.

The following report is made:

Total receipts, charity ball	$250.98
Expenditures for charity ball	62 70
Amount spent for charity	120 67
Total expenses	183 37
Balance on hand	$ 67 61

AUTOS, OIL ROADS.

The oiling of roads seems to be very popular where it has been tried. Some persons say that oiled roads and streets make the best highways. It has been suggested that when automobiles get as common as they will in the course of a few years, it will not be necessary to go to the expense of oiling the streets. They will be kept oiled by the leakage and dripping from automobiles.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.

A marriage licens was issued today to John Earl Norris and Miss Joah Bundy. They will be married at the bride's home in Carthage by the Rev. Charles O. Whitley tomorrow. They will live in Chicago where Mr. Norris has a position with Armour & Co.

CHEER SCHOOLS ON TO VICTORY

Students From Over County Enjoy Field Day Exercises at the Fair Ground.

INTERESTED IN BASKETBALL

Some Other Events Are Close—Music is Furnished by the Manilla Band.

Cheering for their schools, and groaning when a rival gained a point the school students of the county had a big day today at the fair ground. It was the annual field day and it was a success in every way. There was much interest in all of the events and some of them were very close.

During the lull between the events the Manilla band enlivened things a bit with good music. The band received many favorable comments today, and they made a foxy appearance in their new uniforms.

The basketball games attracted much interest during the day. This morning Gings smothered Moscow by a score of 41 to 0. Moscow and Manilla played this afternaan. Baseball was also on the program.

The winners in the other events follow:

Ray Clifton, Raleigh, 50 yard dash.

Van Lewark, Glenwood, Class B, 100 yard dash.

Willie Barlow, Moscow, Class C, 100 yard dash.

Clyde Ryse, Milroy, 440 yard dash

Charles Hires, Gings, high jump.

Reed Crosby, Milroy, shot put.

Francis Knecht, Raleigh, pole vault.

Orange township won the relay race and the drill contest went to Anderson township, as it was the only entry.

STEPS AND WAGONS ON SHORT VISITS

Halloween Pranksters Got Busy Last Night and Did a Few Little Harmless Turns.

GATES ARE HARD TO FIND NOW

The halloween pranksters got busy last night and did just a few little harmless things. A few wagons were taken on joy rides. Steps were taken from their regular places and put where the owners had some trouble getting them back to where they belonged. As far as is known gates were not disturbed, for to tell the truth about it it's pretty hard to find a gate. People don't have them any more. Several masked people were on the street last night. A number of halloween parties were given and from all reports everybody enjoyed themselves. There is one noticeable change in the modern halloween pranks. The old time idea of destroying property has been abandoned and nobody is sorry of it either.

PLEASED WITH HOTEL.

Milroy Press: When the Tompkins hoted was leased to the present proprietor, M. A. Poisal, it was with the understanding that the owner, S. W. Mathews, should fit it up in first class condition. He has done so and now Milroy has the best equipped hostelry there has been here for years.

BUSINESS MEN ARE LIBERAL

More Subscriptions of $25 and Over Announced—Francis Brothers Down For $100.

The money for the Felker Kitchen cabinet company will all be raised in a few hours more if those who have not been seen do what is expected of them. All but about five hundred dollars has been raised and it is thought this can be raised at once. However, the last five hundred is the hardest to get and it is absolutely necessary that the amount be completed at once. If you haven't helped out on the deal do so at once. See the Y. M. C. C. workers or some other men who have been helping out on the deal and tell them you are willing to do your share toward getting a good thing for the city.

The business men have been liberal in their subscriptions and those who are not in the class "business men" have also helped out materially. The committees were not able to put much time on the work today because of the fact that it was Saturday and they have regular positions just like anybody else.

The list given below is additional subscriptions, $25 or over, which have been made since yesterday. The list of all subscriptions will be published Monday.

FISH BONE CAUGHT IN BOY'S THROAT

Dr. J. C. Sexton Called to Remove Small But Mighty Obstruction Which Caused Trouble.

NO SERIOUS AFTER EFFECTS

Martin Carroll suffered for some time last night when a small fish bone became lodged in his throat. The bone was very small and all the efforts of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carroll, to get it out failed. Dr. J. C. Sexton was called and removed the small article from the boy's throat. The young man will suffer no serious after effects from the accident.

GAVE INTERESTING TALK

Frank J. Hall Tells of Old Times Near Raleigh.

The New Castle Courier in speaking of the address of Frak J. Hall at the Henry County Historical Society meeting says:

The address of Lieutenant-Governor Frank J. Hall was of considerable duration, but of a decidedly interesting character, dealing as it did with "Old Times in Lewisville and Releigh." Mr. Hall referred feelingly to those he loved as a boy, who have passed away and related a number of circumstances interesting to every one.

ALL BALLOTS MUST NOW BE PRESERVED

New Law Requires That They be Sealed and Returned to the City Clerk.

CHANGED BY LEGISLATURE

The legislature of 1909 amended the election laws of 1901 so as to require all the ballots which are delivered to the inspectors to be preserved by such inspectors, and at the close of the count placed in separate packages and returned to the clerk of the circuit court with notification to him of the number of ballots placed in such bags, and of the condition of the seals of the ballots' packages. Prior to this statute all ballots were destroyed, but under the new statute all are preserved.

On page 162 of the acts of 1909, relating to the preservation of the ballots reads as follows: "And all ballots, voted and not voted, together with all protested, disputed or uncounted ballots, shall be preserved by the inspector, and at the close of the count placed in separate packages, together with the seals of the ballot packages, in paper bags securely sealed, and delivered to the clerk of the circuit court with notification to him of the number of ballots so placed in such bags, and of the condition of the seals of the ballot packages."

The law in city elections requires the city clerk to perform the duties of the clerk of the circuit court, therefore, the inspectors will return all ballots to the city clerk instead of the clerk of the circuit court as required by law.

MAKES RULING IN SCHOOL CASE

Judge Sparks Dissolves Temporary Restraining Order Granted to Plaintiffs Wednesday.

WILL NOT EFFECT OTHER SUIT

Court Gives as Reason That All of the Plaintiffs Did Not Sign the Bond.

Judge Will Sparks returned a decision this afternoon in the Mays school case, dissolving the temporary restraining order granted Wednesday morning to the plaintiffs in the suit.

The court gave as his reason for the action that all of the plaintiffs did not sign the bond which was necessary in asking for the restraining order. Only five or six of the total sixty-one plaintiffs were on the bond as they thought that sufficient.

The dissolving of the temporary restraining order does not in any way effect the original complaint as filed by the plaintiffs and the suit will come up in its regular order in the next term of court.

The work on the new school house in Center township, about one mile and a quarter west of Mays is progressing and the building will be completed in a short time. The plaintiffs in the suit are sixty-one residents of Center township, who wanted the school building located in Mays instead of the place where it is being built.

The complaint is filed against Chester Rhodes, trustee of the township, alleging that the action taken to erect the new building was illegal on the grounds that one member of the advisory board, Perry Stiers, was of unsound mind. Watson, Titsworth & Green are representing the plaintiffs and Douglas Morris, the defendant.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

PRESIDENT TAFT AT NEW ORLEANS

Junket Ended Today With No Great Results.

DOES NOT COMMIT HIMSELF

President Does Not Indicate Any Great Enthusiasm Over the Deep Waterways Idea as Brought Out in His Trip Down the Mississippi—His Program Today.

New Orleans, Oct. 30.—The voyage down the river of President Taft ended here today. The program early in the day included a luncheon at the archbishop's palace, a speech before the waterways convention, followed by attendance at a football game. This evening he will be a guest at a club dinner and later attend a French opera.

The schedule of the Taft fleet on the Mississippi river went to pieces again yesterday. The President was two hours late in getting into Natchez, Miss., and three hours behind time in reaching Baton Rouge. The boats carrying the twenty-five governors, the 177 congressmen and the host of the deep waterway boosters stuck closed to the president's flagship and the run from Vicksburg was made without chartering a single special train.

On the run from Natchez to Baton Rouge the President was transferred from his flagship to the Alton and then to the Grey Eagle. He had lunch with the St. Louis waterway boosters on the former boat and another luncheon with the Kansas City rooters on the latter. It was the quickest two-meal shift the President has done since he started on his trip—two luncheons in two hours.

At the luncheon on the Kansas City boat the President turned from the Mississippi to the Missouri river. "The Missouri," said he, "is even harder to tackle than the Mississippi, and if you surmount the difficulties and vagaries of that stream, as I doubt not you will, you will establish the primacy of Kansas City."

The President made the transfers to the Alton and the Grey Eagle in midriver with the boats under way. Each ran alongside the flagship and was made fast to it.

The President ended his Mississippi river trip with no clear idea whether the improvement of the river will be practicable or not. He outlined his views in a speech today.

"There are some of us," said he, "that are most willing to be convinced and yet are still somewhat doubtful as to the method that ought to be pursued and as to the policy that ought to be undertaken in the improvement of this waterway. That it ought to be improved I think the most of those on this trip sincerely believe, but the question of what shall be done to make it most useful to serve the purpose that we all have in mind is one that I wish I could have as clearly in my mind as have those gentlemen whose guests we are."

ASSAILANT IDENTIFIED

Little Girl Victim of Brutal Assault Says Eagle Is the Man.

Washington, Ind., Oct. 30.—Blanche Wise, age eleven, who was attacked last Sunday, positively identified John Eagle, now in jail, as her assailant. The Wise girl, with three other children, were taken to the county jail, where the identification was made in the presence of the sheriff and E. E. Hastings, prosecuting attorney. A. C. Wise, father of the girl, also identified Eagle as the man he saw in the woods Sunday and who ran when Wise addressed him. Eagle will be tried on November 15.

So far Eagle has been unable to obtain an attorney. It is likely the court will appoint a lawyer to defend the prisoner if he insists on standing trial. It is the general opinion here that Eable will plead guilty when the time comes to receive his sentence.

Last Saloon Closed.

Noblesville, Ind., Oct. 30.—When the saloon of Thomas Barnes at Arcadia closed its doors Thursday night Hamilton county was "dry" under the county local option law. Several churches in the county celebrated the closing of the last saloon by continuing their regular Thursday night prayer meetings until 11 o'clock, when prayer was offered and bells rang.

Air Valve Tampered With.

Tocsin, Ind., Oct. 30.—Unknown persons turned a valve connecting the air of a freight engine while running on the Erie railroad and made it impossible to stop the train on a side track and a headon collision with an emigrant passenger train followed. Six emigrants were injured, two probably serious. Livestock on the freight was killed and traffic tied up for three hours.

Married on Parents' Anniversary.

Danville, Ind., Oct. 30.—While Mr. and Mrs. John H. Halfacre, living north of Pittsboro, were celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home, their youngest son, James Halfacre, and Miss Kate Risk were married in the presence of many relatives and friends.

ZELAYA MAY HAVE PART OF COUNTRY

Two Republics May Be Made of Nicaraugua.

THE NEW PLAN OF ESTRADA

State Department at Washington Learns That Revolutionary Leader Proposes to Split Up the Country and Divide With Zelaya—Idea Not at All in Favor With United States Officials.

Washington, Oct. 30.—It has been learned at the state department that the provisional government recently established in Nicaragua by Juan J. Estrada will proclaim the independence of the Atlantic States of Nicaragua as a separate republic. The new republic will comprise all the territory now held by the revolutionists. If this program is carried into effect President Zelaya will be allowed to remain in control of the remaining territory of Nicaragua with his capital at Mangua, the present capital of the republic. While the state department officials are maintaining an absolutely neutral attitude, they look with disfavor upon any arrangement which will allow Zelaya to retain power in Central American politics. In any event his influence will be greatly reduced, but they prefer his elimination from the field of Central American politics.

On the whole, the situation in Central America is far from satisfactory to officers of the state department, who are interested in maintaining peace between the Latin-American republics. It is generally admitted that the elimination of Zelaya from Central American politics will clear the atmosphere considerably.

OUT OF POLITICS

Richard Croker in New York on His Way to Palm Beach, Florida.

New York, Oct. 30.—Richard Croker, who arrived on the Mauretania yesterday, dined with a few friends at the Democratic club, and turned in at 8 o'clock pretty well tired out. He was accompanied on his trip by his niece, Mrs. Stella Bowman, and Miss Emily Croker, his cousin. Evidently he was in robust health. He talked of his horses at his Glencairn estate, but nothing under the sun could induce him to talk politics. Mr. Croker said that he would be in town a few days and would then leave for his bungalow at Palm Beach, Fla., and remain there until May 1.

OCEAN STEAMER LOST?

Reports Come of Evidence of Wreck in Big Storm.

Paris, Oct. 30.—An unconfirmable report from Cherbourg states that life belts from the North German Lloyd steamer Kron Prinzessin Cecilie, from Bremen, Cherbourg and Southampton for New York, have been found on the coast of Normandie. There has been a very severe storm on the northern seaboard of France and much damage has been done. The little port of Grand Camp has suffered severely and twenty-five fishing vessels belonging to the port have been lost. The sea swept over part of the town, destroying a number of houses, drowning cattle and sweeping away other property.

Newspaper Campaign.

Mexico City, Oct. 30.—The Standard Oil company, through its subsidiary concern, the Waters-Pierce Oil company, is publishing a series of notices in the newspapers of Mexico over its own signature, in which it announces that it does not have any intention of retiring from the Mexican field on account of the terrific competition being waged against it by the Mexican Eagle Oil company, the new $30,000,000 corporation in which a number of high government officials and some of the wealthiest men in Mexico are interested.

December and May.

New Haven, Oct. 30.—Suit was brought in the superior court in this city by Burr S. Peck, age seventy-three years, against his twenty-one year old wife for divorce. They were married July 9, 1908, in New York, a few days after the bride's birthday. The groom is worth between $75,000 and $100,000. Intolerable cruelty is alleged by the plaintiff, dating from the date of the marriage.

Still More War.

Panama, Oct. 30.—War between Salvador and Nicaragua governments headed by Zelaya has begun. Salvador's armies have been ordered mobilized by President Figuerea to repel invasion by Nicaraguans and Salvador exiles commanded by General Alfaro. Salvador's gunboats have been ordered to patrol Nicaragua's coast.

Four Bodies Found.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 30.—Four bodies were washed ashore on the Nova Scotia coast and are all supposed to be those of victims of the wreck of the steamship Hestia. Three bodies were cast up at Sanford and one at Short Beach.

HOOK WORM MUST GO

Experts Believe Mr. Rockefeller's Gift Means Eradication.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The experts of the public health and marine hospital service believe that the $1,000,000 donated by John D. Rockefeller will go a long way toward eradicating the "hook worm," which, according to many persons who have investigated the subject, has ravaged for generations the "poor whites," and which they believe to be responsible for the appellation as distinctively applied to certain classes of white people who live south of the Potomac. Surgeon General Wyman, the head of the service, who has been directing the operations which led to the recognition and identification of the hook worm, was greatly pleased with Mr. Rockefeller's action.

THE BIG FIGHT IS NOW ARRANGED

Jeffries and Johnson Will Fight Next Summer.

New York, Oct. 30.—Meeting here yesterday afternoon, James J. Jeffries, the retired champion, and Jack Johnson, the present incumbent, agreed to fight forty-five rounds or more to decide the heavy weight championship of the world. Articles of agreement to this effect were signed by both principals, who were present at the session.

A side bet of $10,000 is to hinge on the outcome, each side agreeing to wager $5,000. Five thousand dollars was also posted by each pugilist as a guarantee of good faith with Robert P. Murphy, the proprietor of the Hotel Albany, where the meeting was held.

There was no idle talk exchanged. In fact, the men discussed matters with Chesterfieldian politeness, and the session was conducted in an earnest, businesslike manner. Johnson was the star of the meeting. He made an excellent impression, both by his willingness to concede to many vital points and amiability. The only time that he balked was when Jeff suggested that they make a side bet of $20,000. Johnson said he would have consented to invest this sum had not his manager intervened and convinced him that he could get a much better return for his money betting at the prevailing odds.

At times in the course of the afternoon Johnson addressed Jeffries as "Mister." Jeffries, on the other hand, treated the negro's presence with indifference and only once spoke to him and that was when the question of how the purses should be divided came up.

The agreement entered into between Johnson and Jeffries provides for the following: They agree to box for the heavy weight championship of the world; they agree to box for the club, organization or person offering the best financial inducement; referee to be selected when the club's bid is accepted; the contest shall be forty-five rounds or more; the purse shall be divided 75 per cent. to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser; each of the contestants posts the sum of $10,000, of this sum each posts $5,000 as a wager or side bet on the result of the contest and $5,000 as a forfeit to guarantee compliance with the articles; the contest shall take place not later than July 5, 1910; Queensbury rules and 5-ounce gloves.

Threatened by Black Hand.

Collinsville, Ill., Oct. 30.—Louis Lumaghi, an Italian, wealthiest resident of Madison county, has received a letter signed "Black Hand," saying that unless he places $6,000 in cash in the old King Oak tree on his estate two miles north of Collinsville, his son Louis will be abducted. Lumaghi informed the sheriff and police of Collinsville and other cities and employed armed men, who are now guarding him and his family in his country home.

MUTINEERS START REVOLT IN GREECE

Nearly Successful Attempt to Bring Serious Trouble.

LIEUT. TYPALDOS THE LEADER

Enough of the Military and Naval Force Remained Loyal to Bring Disaster to the Malcontents and Prevented What Might Have Been a Bloody Conflict.

London, Oct. 30.—A telegram from Athens says that Lieutenant Typaldos has seized the islet of Leros, which is situated close to the arsenal. Troops have been sent by the government with orders to surround the position of the mutineers and compel them to surrender.

Athens, Oct. 30.—Lieutenant Typaldos, a naval officer, with 300 men, seized the naval arsenal at Salamis, an island ten miles west of Athens, without any resistance. The action was proclaimed to be in support of the junior naval officers' efforts at removal of the old men on the ground that they are incompetent. The government had this complaint under consideration. Many young naval men, however, disclaimed any connection with the act of Typaldos, and the military league which has been making demonstrations against the government for military and naval reforms denounced Typaldos as a traitor. The mutineers soon met with disaster. There was a sharp fight at Salamis, which as the big warship remained loyal to the government and joined in the attack on the mutineers, ended in the discomfiture of Lieutenant Typaldos.

Field artillery opened fire from the heights of Scaramanga on the torpedo boats in the harbor. The latter replied, whereupon the large warships took a hand. There was a sharp exchange of shells and for a time matters were very lively. The arsenal was hit and the new torpedo boat destroyer Sphendone, built in England in 1907, being struck by a shell, was immediately hidden in a cloud of steam and smoke.

During the firing three of the torpedo boats gradually withdrew from action, and twenty minutes after the first shot was fired all the mutineers had taken shelter behind the headland at the entrance of the harbor. The firing then stopped. The arsenal is in the hands of the government now, which is co-operating with the military league ashore.

A regiment of infantry and a battery of guns left here for Scaramanga, opposite Leros. The soldiers declared their willingness to obey their officers and the government authorities. The officers of the ministry of marine are being guarded by troops.

THAT MOUNTAIN CLIMB

Some Facts About Getting Statements From Guide Barrill.

Washington, Oct. 30.—General James M. Ashton of Tacoma, Wash., who is in this city in connection with a case before the supreme court, said that at the request of General Thomas H. Hubbard, president of the Peary Arctic club, he had found the guides who accompanied Dr. Cook on his Mt. McKinley trip and got statements from them that Cook did not get within miles of the summit of the mountain.

"I paid Barrill, Dr. Cook's Mount McKinley guide, between $100 and $200 for the deposition in which he stated that the explorer did not reach the summit of Mt. McKinley by fourteen miles," said General Ashton. "I have known Hubbard for a long time and have had business dealings with him," General Ashton continued. "When I received his telegram I assumed that I was to take no sides in the matter—that I was to conduct the examination exactly as a judge on the bench would conduct a trial. I did not know at that time that General Hubbard was interested in Arctic exploration or was connected with any association interested in it. I may have thought at the time he was representing some scientific body here in the east.

"As for Barrill, the guide who swears that Cook did not get within fourteen miles of the summit of Mt. McKinley, he may be nothing but a mountain guide, but he is a type of our hard-working western men who will fight rather than lie."

General Ashton denied bribing the guides, or tempting them in any way with sums of money.

Wants $10,000 Damages.

New York, Oct. 30.—A preliminary hearing in a suit brought by Lieutenant Charles I. Wade, U. S. N., against the publishers of the Cosmopolitan magazine was held in the United States circuit court. Lieutenant Wade wants $10,000 damages because of an article written by Charles Edward Russell for the March, 1907, number of the magazine. The article dealt with an explosion on the U. S. S. Benington in San Diego harbor, July 21, 1905. Certain lines in it reflecting on an ensign, not specifically named, are the basis for the suit.

"Story of Two Councils" or "Republican Victory"

Figures Which Show That Republicans Know How to Rnn the City's Business

The record of the Republican city council and Superintendent Mahin is one of something accomplished, something done.

No argument is more legitimate than that of comparison, and no comparison can be more convincing than the one between the present Republican administration of city affairs and the last one that was Democratic.

Rushville has about the same number of people now that she had then, and the opportunity for successful administration were just as great then as now. And yet the receipts of the water and light plant for the last four years were greater by more than $30,000.00 than the four-years period immediately preceding. What is the cause of the difference? Increased efficiency, coupled with greater economy. In other words, REPUBLICANS KNOW HOW!

Here is the full record and we submit is with pride:

DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION, 1904.

Water receipts		$ 5,831 93
Electric light receipts		4,399 85
Total receipts		$10,231 78

Total receipts	$10,553 16
Same value for the public use as above (year 1904)	13,460 00
Total earnings for plant in water and light for 1905	$24,013 16

The following year, 1906, the administration was Democratic to September 1st, and Republican from September 1st to January 1st, 1907.

THE YEAR 1906.

Water receipts	$ 7,426 62
Electric light receipts	5,075 42
Total receipts	$12,502 04
Same value for public use as above two years (1904 and 1905)	13,460 00
Total earnings of plant in water and light for 1906	$25,962 04

REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION, 1907.

During this year A. T. Mahin was appointed superintendent. The books of the plant and accounts were turned over to the city treasurer for collection.

Water receipts		$ 9,816 76
Electric light receipts		6,849 70
Total receipts		$16,666.46
Value of this year's public use—
Number of hydrants increased from 110 to 120.
120 hydrants @ $82	$9,840 00
Number of arc lights increased from 32 to 35.
35 arc lights @ $90	3,150 00
Number of incandescent lights of 16 c. p. and 110 voltage increased to 32 c. p. and 220 voltage, making 346, @ $12	4,152 00
Total value for public use of the hydrants and street lights		17,142 00
Total earnings of plant in water and light in 1907		$33,808 46

Water receipts	$10,059 49
Electric light receipts	7,260 80
Total receipts	$17,320 29
Value for public use same as last year, 1907	17,142 00
Total earnings of plant in water and light for 1908	$34,462 29

REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION, 1909

Water receipts for ten months to November		$ 9,216 51
Estimated receipts for water for November and December, same as corresponding months last year		790 00
Total receipts for water		$10,006 51
Electric lights for ten months to November, received	$7,097 98
Estimated receipts for lights in November and December, same as corresponding two months of last year	1,500 00
Total receipts for lights		$8,597 98
Total receipts for water and lights for 1909		$18,604 49
Value for public use, same as last year (1908)		17,142 00
Total earnings of plant in water and light for 1909		$35,746 49

RECAPITULATION.

Earnings of plant in 1904 (Democratic)	$23,691 78
Earnings of plant in 1905 (Democratic)	24,013 16
Earnings in 1906 (Dem. 8 months, Rep. 4 months)	25,962 04
Total earnings in 3 years under Democrats		$73,666 98
Earnings of plant in 1907 (Republican)	$33,808 46
Earnings of plant in 1908 (Republican)	34,462 29
Earnings of plant in 1909 (Republican)	35,746 49
Total earnings in 3 years under Republicans		$104,017 24
Increase in earnings of water and light plant during last three years over former three years		$30,350 26

Four years ago the water and light plant was in a deplorable condition. Its appearance compared very well with the junk shop of Hyman Schatz. In fact it was reduced to almost that extremity. The electrical equipment was out of date, the machinery old and worn, boilers in bad repair, reservoir leaking and not having been cleaned out for years; the outside wiring over the city in contact with shade trees until over half the electric current was grounded; the poles all rotting at the ground, with cross-arms gone.

The present council's first contract was for new electrical equipment—switchboard, transformers, arc lights, etc.

Contract of 1907	$6,500 00
Engine, direct conected to generator	3,750 00
		$10,250 00
Piping engine to boilers and repair work of fixing of plant		1,000 00
Total cost of eelctrical equipment an drepair work		$30,028 49

We have one of the best electric light plants in the State, with a capacity of 335 Kilo Watts, also reserve power and day current. Our city is much better lighted, having increased the number of street lights.

It might be of interest to note that the decrease of the city tax levy from $1.20 to $1.00 on the hundred dollars, is an annual saving to the tax payers of Rushville of $5,486.33, based on the present valuation of taxable property in the corporation, which, for the year 1909 is $2,743,165, as given by the county auditor.

Interesting Side of Life

HIDDEN TREASURE.

Rushville is living in the realm of the mysterious now. Things weird and queer are happening. Stolen articles are being located, escaped murderers are being seen, and people are conversing with the friends who are dead.

These things are all right—that is for the people who are finding their stolen property, but not for the escaped murderer—but there is one woman in this city today who is just a bit anxious about what a clairvoyant told her last night.

The clairvoyant in the trance saw a farm, a good farm. The name of the owner was that of the person to whom she was talking. And the person was a bit surprised for she didn't know how the clairvoyant knew she had a farm. But wait—the clairvoyant sees something else. There it is—it is some money buried on the farm. It is enough to pay the woman for searching for it.

Then the woman got more interested and asked more questions, but it was useless. The vision of the hidden treasure was very dim. But would she hunt for the treasure? She doesn't believe in mediums and trances, etc. But she does believe in hidden treasures. And while she "knows" there is nothing in it yet—well, it will do no harm to look for the money and so she will begin searching at once.

THE LEGLESS CAT.

This is the story of a cat, and a dough machine, and a bakery. Don't make a mistake now—the cat was not on the inside of the dough machine but on the outside, where he could not even smell the bread. He was a nice cat, and caught mice when any ventured near the bakery. And this cat knew his place, and didn't try to help mix the dough or anything like that.

There had been a gas engine used to run the dough machine, but an electric motor was put on. The power was thrown on in the morning, and the man heard something thumping, thumping, thumping—and he heard the howls of the cat. The motor was stopped and poor kitty was rescued from underneath the machine. One leg was damaged and it was necessary to amputate it. Kitty is learning to walk on three legs now—and is staying from under the dough machine.

GOOD PRICES AT LARGE HOG SALE

Fifty-One Head Averaged $25.56—One Porker Sold For $55, Another For $40.

CHURCH WOMEN IN RECEIPTS

The total receipts of the Harrison hog sale held at Milroy Thursday were $1,293.50. This is said to be one of the largest hog sales ever held in the State. There were fifty-one head which averaged $25.56. Will Brown and Will Martin bought the two highest priced hogs, Brown paying $40 for one and Martin paying $55. The hog which was given to the women of the Methodist church by Mr. Harris brought $33.50. A collection taken up by the auctioneers made this amount more than forty-four dollars. The auctioneers were Tom Vinnege, Albert Morris and Joe Pike.

BY THE WAYSIDE

"I have paid rent all my life; I mean to quit when I die," declared Warren Foster, a well known newspaper man, in a letter expressing his last wish, which was opened after his death in Ogden, Utah.

"For the final disposition of my old body," says the letter, "my first wish is that it be cremated. If inconvenient or expensive, then lay me away in what is known to be the potter's field. But in no event, under any condition am I to be buried in any cemetery where they buy and sell lots or charge a rental of any kind for keeping the lots in condition."

WHEAT 3,400 YEARS OLD.

Connecticut Man Said to Have Some of Grain Joseph Stored In Egypt.

Some of the wheat that Joseph stored during the seven years of famine in Egypt has been received by Valentine Hammer of Branford, Conn. It was found by officers of the museum of Cairo in a storehouse in Dier-el-Babri, and its identity was established by appropriate inscriptions.

About half the quantity found was brought to the Cairo museum and placed on exhibition. The rest was sold, and Azez Khayal of New York city purchased a small amount of it. He sent a portion of his purchase to Mr. Hammer. The wheat was stored in the nineteenth dynasty, 1,500 years before Christ, or 3,400 years ago.

AMUSEMENTS

That Clayton Hufford, the former Rushville boy, who has been putting on a singing act at the Star-Grand this week, has made a hit, is evidenced by the large crowds which have been flocking to hear him every night He has a beautiful tenor voice which he uses to good advantage in the songs which he chooses. He was very popular in his youthful make-up when he sang songs appropriate. He will sing a selection tonight by request which he sang one other night this week. He will go to Knightstown next week for a week's engagement there at the vaudeville house.

The Palace has two good films for tonight. One is "Onawanda," a story of the early life in this country. The other is the "Romance of an Umbrella," and is a good comic subject. The illustrated song will be "I Want Someone to Play With."

The Vaudet offers an entire change to night in "The Virgin of Bethoven's Moonlight Sonate," which is an excellent picture. The Moonlight Sonate is familiar to all and the audiences will be delighted to see the first beginning of that famous selection. Don Rogers will sing "Take me Back to Manhattan Dearie."

The Star-Grand offers two of those Lubin comedy pictures tonight. The first subject is "The Billikin" which is full of fun and the second subject, which is the topic of the day and is very much discussed by the public is "Who Discovered the North Pole." By special request Mr. Clayton P. Hufferd will sing the solo "The Sea is my Sweetheart." Earl Robertson will sing "The Cook Book of Love;" also the Republican song hit, "Isn't Love a Grand Old Thing."

Look at your collars and cuffs and then look at your friends. See what a difference. Are your collars, cuffs and shirt bosoms YELLOW, HARD and SHINE like a piece of celluloid? To get this shine it requires your collars, cuffs and shirt bosoms to be passed under an intense hot roll a dozen or more times. In fact the life of the linen is killed. We finish your collars and cuffs by hand, with our up-to-date methods. We return your collars, cuffs and shirts to you clean and white, and that pliable feeling to them, that will lengthen the life of your linen.

The Lure of the Mask

By
HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Cigars, then."

But they both played a very indifferent game. At 10:30 Merrihew's eyes began to haunt the clock, and Hillard grew merciful for various reasons.

"What time does the performance end?" he asked.

"At 10:50, but it takes about twenty minutes to scrape off the makeup."

Merrihew put his cue in the rack. He made off for the coat room.

Hillard laughed and went up to the writing room to fulfill a part of his destiny. He took the letter out and read it again. He replaced the letter in its blue covering, and then for the first time his eye met the superscription. Like a man entranced he sat there staring. The steward had brought the letter to him, and in his first excitement this had made no impression upon his mind. He had seen nothing peculiar nor strange. And here it was, not his initials, but his name in full.

She knew who he was!

In a fashionable quarter of the city there stood a brownstone house, with grotesque turrets, winding steps and glaring polished red tiles. There was a touch of the gothic, of the renaissance, of the old English manor; just a touch, however, a kind of blind man's buff of a house. A very rich man lived here, but for ten months in the year he and his family fluttered about the social centers of the world. And, with a house like this on his hands, one could scarce blame him. Twice a week during this absence a caretaker came in, flourished a feather duster and went away again. Society reporters always referred to this house as "the palatial residence."

This morning a woman stood in the alcove window and looked down into the glistening street. The venetian red of her hair trapped the reflected sunlight from the opposite windows, and two little points of silver danced in her blue eyes. Ah, but her eyes were blue—blue as spring water in the morning, blue as the summer sky seen through a cleft in the mountains, blue as lapis lazuli, with the same fibers of gold. And every feature and contour of the face harmonized with the marvelous hair and the wonderful eyes; a beautiful face, warm, dreamy, engaging, mobile. It was not the face of a worldly woman; neither was it the face of a girl. It was too emotional for the second, and there was not enough control for the first.

But the prophecy of laughter did not come to pass. The little wrinkles faded, the mouth grew sad, and the silver points no longer danced in her eyes. The pain in her heart was always shadowing. She had seen her fairest dream beaten and crumpled upon the reef of disillusion.

Yet again the smile renewed itself. She was a creature of varying moods. She twisted and untwisted the newspaper. Should she? Ought she? Had she not always regretted these singular impulses? And yet what harm to read this letter and return it to the sender? She was so lonely here. It was like being among a strange people, so long ago was it that her foot had touched this soil. Was it possible that she was twenty-five? Was there not some miscount, and was it not fifteen instead? Would not this war of wisdom and folly be decided ere long?

She opened the paper and smoothed out the folds. "Mme. Angot—There is a letter for you in the mail department of this office." It was so droll. It was unlike anything she had ever heard of—a personal inquiry column, where Cupids and Psyches billed and cooed. The merest chance had thrown the original inquiry under her notice. Her answer was an impulse to which she had given no second thought till too late. She ought to have ignored it. But she was lonely; the people she knew were out of town, and the jest might amuse her.

This man was in all probability a gentleman, since he was a member of a gentlemen's club. But second thought convinced her that this proved nothing. Men are often called gentlemen out of compliment to their ancestors. Still, if this man only saw the affair from her angle of vision, the grotesque humor of it and not the common vulgar intrigue! She hesitated, as well she might. Supposing that eventually he found out who she was? That would never, never do. No one must know that she was in America about to step into the wildest of wild adventures. No; she must not be found out. The king, who had been kind to her, and the court must never know. From their viewpoint they would have declared that she was about to tarnish a distinguished name, to outrage the oldest aristocracy in Europe, the court of Italy. But she had her own opinion; what she proposed to do was in itself harmless and innocent. But this gentleman who leaned out of the window? She had seen the match flare in the young man's face. Was it the face she had seen in that flash of light that interested her sufficiently to risk the note? Against the dark of the night it had appeared for an instant, clean, crisp, ruddy as a cameo. The face warranted confidence.

She had sung because she had been happy, happy with that transient happiness which at times was her portion. Could she ever judge another man by his looks? She believed not. How she had run! The man, bareheaded, giving chase and the burly policeman across the street!

She stepped down from the alcove, wound the gray veil round the riding crop and tossed them into a corner. Somehow in the daylight the magic was gone from his face, for she had recognized him that first day in the park. He rode well. She touched a bell. A maid appeared.

"Bettina, you will go to the office of this newspaper and inquire for a letter addressed to Mme. Angot. And be quick, for I may change my mind."

The maid was back in a half hour.

"There was a letter, then?" The points were dancing again in the blue eyes.

"You may go. Perhaps," and Bettina's mistress smiled—"perhaps I may let you read it and answer it after I am done with it. That would be rather neat."

The slight nod was a dismissal, and the maid went about her duties, which were not many in this house.

Meanwhile the lady with the venetian hair toyed with the letter. Club paper! Evidently he was not afraid to trust her. But would he amuse her? The contents gave her a genuine surprise. She ran to the window. Italian! It was written in Italian, with all the flourishes of an Italian born. She turned to the signature—Hillard. So he had signed his name in full? She ruminated. How came such a name to belong to a man who wrote Italian so beautifully? She looked at the signature again. John—Giovanni. She would call him Giovanni. She had been rather clever. To have had the wit to look in the library for the blue book and the club list—not every woman would have thought of that. Then a new inspiration came to her. She sent Bettina for the card basket. She scattered the contents upon the floor and sat down Turkish-wise. She sorted the cards carefully, and, lo, she was presently rewarded. She held up the card in triumph. He had called at this house on Thanksgiving day. He was known, then, to the master and mistress. Very good. She now gave her full attention to the letter, which she had not yet perused:

To the Lady in the Fog:

To begin with, let me say that I, too, have laughed. But there was some degree of chagrin in my laughter. On my word of honor, it was a distinct shock to my sense of dignity when I saw that idiotic personal of mine in the paper. It is my first offense of the kind, and I am really ashamed. But the situation was not ordinary. Ordinary women do not sing in the streets after midnight. As you could not possibly be ordinary, my offense has greater magnitude. To indite a personal to a gentlewoman! A thousand pardons! I doubted that it would come under your notice, and, even if it did, I was sure that you would ignore it. To find a woman with an appreciable sense of humor is rare. To find one who couples this with initiation is rarer still. How you found out my name confuses me.

"Indeed!" murmured the lady.

Doubtless you have the club list in your house. Do you know, when the letter was brought me I saw nothing unusual about the address. It was only when I began this letter that I comprehended how clever you were. There are half a dozen J. H.'s at the club. I tell you truthfully over my own name that your voice startled me.

I was startled because my thoughts were far away. I was dreaming of Italy, where I was born, though there is no more Italian blood in my veins than there is in yours.

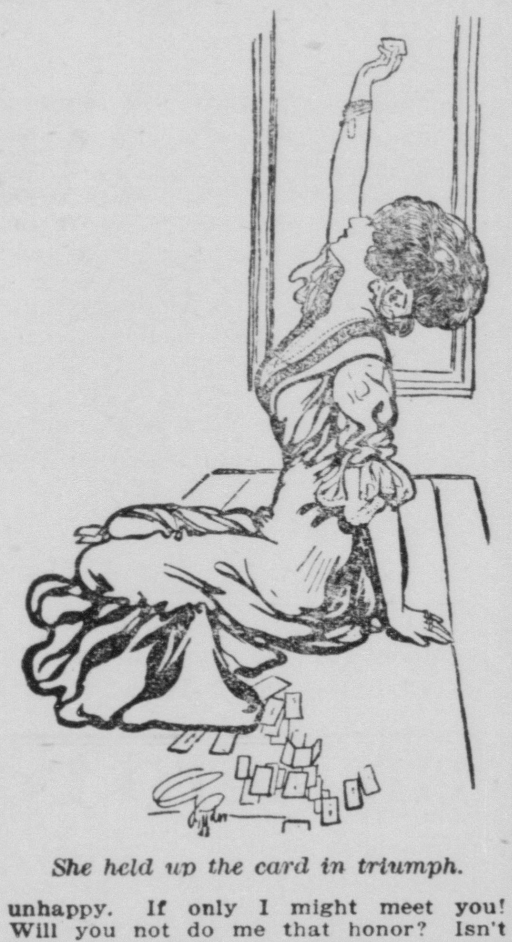
"What made him think that, I wonder?"

I therefore write this in a language familiar to us both, certain you could not sing Lecocq's songs in Italian if you did not speak and understand it thoroughly. Signora or signorina, whichever it may be, have we no mutual friends? Are you not known to some one who knows me—some one who will speak for me, my character, my habits?

"It is rather a dull letter so far," said the lady.

You say you sang because at that moment you were happy. This implies that you are not always so. Surely with a voice like yours one cannot possibly be unhappy. If only I might meet you! Will you not do me that honor? Isn't there just a little pure, healthy romance waiting to be given life? Your voice haunts me. Out of every silence it comes to me—"She is so innocent, so youthful!"

JOHN HILLARD.



She held up the card in triumph.

The letter fluttered into her lap. She leaned on her elbows. It was not a bad letter, and she rather liked the boyish tone of it. Nothing vulgar peered out from between the lines. Did he really love music? He must, for it was not every young man who could pick out the melody of an old, forgotten opera. Rather than tempt fate she decided not to answer this letter. It would be neither wise nor useful.

Romance! The word came back to her. With an unmusical laugh she stood up, shaking the letter to the floor. Romance! She was no longer a girl. She was a woman of five and twenty, and what should a woman know of romance? Ah, there had been a time when all the world was romance—romance; when the night breeze had whispered it under her casement window, when the lattice climbing roses had breathed it, when the moon and the stars had spelled it Romance! She hated the word not less than she hated the Italian language, the Italian people, the country itself. She spurned the letter with her foot and fed the newspaper to the fire.

Thirty Years of Success

Lytle's Drug Store Offers a Remedy. The Medicine Costs Nothing if if Fails.

When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should beleive us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Mucu-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of enviable success to his record.

We receive more good reports about Rexall Mucu-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Mucu-Tone is, it would be the only catarrh remedy we would have any demand for.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is quickly absorbed and its therapeutic effect tends to disinfect and cleanse the entire mucous membraneous tract, to destroy and remove the parasites which injure the membraneous tissues, to soothe the irritation and heal the soreness, stop the mucous discharge, build up strong, healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the muco-cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

We urge you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply come and tell us, and we will quickly return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Mucu-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Rushville only at our store,—The Rexall Store. Lytle's Drug Store.

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

W Lytle, Sec'y., or any member of the association, on or before Dec. 28, 1909, who in turn, will submit them to a committee of three Rushville Bankers, who will award the Piano to the person or organization sending in coupons representing the greatest amount of purchases.

The above piano was furnished by S. E. Secoy, local representative for the Kurtzmann Piano

ANDERSON MERCHANT DEAD

Commits Suicide at St. Louis While Mentally Unbalanced.

St. Louis, Oct. 30.—Henry S. Hysinger, age seventy, rich, but with a delusion, his relatives say, that he would become poor, drank carbolic acid out of a shaving mug, dying soon afterward. Hysinger arose early and before breakfast asked his wife for some whisky. She said there was none upstairs, and went to the kitchen.

In a few minutes she heard her husband groan, and running to his room found him struggling on the bed. On the floor was an empty four-ounce carbolic acid bottle and a shaving mug. Hysinger died soon afterward.

Hysinger was interested in a number of stores, one of which is located at Anderson, Indiana.

BIG CORPORATION MOVING MACHINERY

Carrying Out Threat to Eliminate Unionism.

Pittsburg, Oct. 30.—A part of the United States Steel corporation, the American sheet and tinplate company, has begun the shifting of machinery from certain plants to others perhaps 100 miles distant, thereby putting into action the threat of some time ago to wipe out the last trace of unionism in its mills throughout the country. The great tin mills at Bridgeport and Martins Ferry, O., are being boarded up and their 5,500 employes left without work, while the expensive machinery is being brought into Pennsylvania and installed in plants long since abandoned and formerly marked for the scrap heap. These two Ohio plants have admittedly been the strongholds in unionism of the strike which has raged in the American steel and wire company's plants since last June. The workmen there have been most stubborn, but it was not decided until some days ago to board the mills up entirely and take the machinery to other towns.

The work of shifting the machinery has begun, and the hopes of more than 1,500 families in these two towns of a return to work have been extinguished. Local officials at the abandoned Ohio plants are quoted as saying that the mills will not be reopened inside of four years.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION

One Killed and Another Badly Burned at Laporte.

Laporte, Ind., Oct. 30.—Coroner Osborn is unraveling the circumstances surrounding the mysterious explosion in the office of the Harding cement block works, which resulted in the death of Harry J. May and the serious burning of Elmer E. Harding, owner of the Harding plant.

May patented and owned several secret formulas for water-proofing and weather-proofing artificial stone and cement blocks. Harding telephoned Mr. May to come to his office and help him prepare a quantity of the compound. Harding had just carried in a pail of gasoline when the explosion occurred.

The explosion blew shut the door, which was equipped with a spring lock, and the men in the factory, who rushed to the office when the explosion occurred, were forced to batter down the door and break in the windows before they could rescue the two men from the fire trap.

Big Dam Nearing Completion.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Oct. 30.—Engineers in charge of the work of building the dam at the falls of the Ohio expect to finish their work within three weeks, if favorable weather continues. The engineers are now busy on the southern end of the section of the Boule dam, between the Indiana and middle chutes, and the completion of this section will bring at last the realization of the dream of rivermen for years—a nine-foot stage on the Ohio river the year round from the falls to Madison and a six-foot stage up the Kentucky river as far as the first locks.

Doctor Accused of Murder.

Mattoon, Ill., Oct. 30.—Dr. J. P. Deckard, a country practitioner, was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of murdering Ralph L. Webster, a neighbor. The grand jury, which was then in session, at once took up the investigation of the affair. The murder was the result of a dispute over several hogs that had broken out of Webster's field and were found in Dr. Deckard's corn field.

HAD TO FACE "MA"

Judge Puts Hard Fate on Man Who Would Rather Be in Jail.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 30.—Judge Gnichtel, in the Mercer county criminal court here, imposed a novel penalty on Charles Darren, convicted of wife beating. He ordered Darren released from jail and sent home to his mother-in-law. Mrs. Darren had informed the judge confidentially that she and "Ma" could look after the offender.

Darren left the court with extreme reluctance, not knowing but dreading what "Ma" had in store for him. He mumbled that he would rather stay in jail, but an unfeeling policeman said, "Move now, Ma's waiting for you."

TO THE GALLOWS AND TO PRISON

Man and Wife Sentenced for Atrocious Crimes.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 30.—Mrs. James Robinson has been sentenced to death and her husband committed to the penitentiary for twenty-eight years. The woman's crime was smothering between the mattresses at different times three infants of her two daughters. Upon smothering the children she had on each occasion washed and dressed them and placed them in a box. These had been handed over to the husband, who buried the bodies side by side on the farm on which they lived, in the backwoods, 200 miles north of here. When the facts became known Robinson fled, but was captured and brought to jail. Prior to his trial his wife pleaded guilty to murdering the children. The court held Robinson was guilty of coercing his wife to commit murder.

POLITICAL INFLUENCE

Said to Be Used in Protecting White Slave Traders.

New York, Oct. 30.—Information has been obtained in Philadelphia that Tammany influence had been used in that city to protect white slave dealers arrested there. The information that men notoriously useful to Tammany in such work in the courts of this city went to Philadelphia and endeavored through political influence to save from prison a man who had been notorious in the white slave trade in this city, had transferred his activities in part to Philadelphia and was there arrested.

Reward for Life-Saving.

Denver, Oct. 30.—It has just become known that Charles W. Bennett, a wealthy man of Binghamton, N. Y., who died recently, willed $200,000 to J. W. Casey of this city as a reward for saving his life thirty years ago. Casey is the proprietor of a laundry here and is comfortably well off. Casey and Bennett were school chums in Binghamton. The former, who was an expert swimmer, rescued Bennett from drowning. Bennett then told his companion that he would ever remember his heroic act.

Johnson Didn't Mind It.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 30.—A bullet fired by an intoxicated man missed Mayor Tom L. Johnson by a few feet as the mayor was entering Weber's Superior avenue cafe. The man, who gave his name as Joseph J. Olaynick, an Austrian, thirty-eight years old, was arrested and disarmed. Mayor Johnson continued undisturbed and joined a party of political lieutenants at lunch.

Tawney Getting Prepared.

Washington, Oct. 30.—For nearly three hours representative Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on appropriations of the house of representatives, discussed with treasury officers the plans for retrenching expenditures in the executive departments and their relation to the estimates for the annual budget to be reported by Tawney's committee in the next session of congress.

KILLED HER HUSBAND

Chicago Woman Takes Vengeance on Man Who Deserted Her.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—A sneer caused Mrs. Esther Levy to change her purpose from that of suicide to murder when she went to the cell of her husband, Abraham Levy, in the police station and pleaded with him to return to her and their four children, whom he had deserted. Instead of firing a bullet into her temple, as she had planned, she shot him, probably fatally, in the abdomen.

As he fell she put the weapon to her head with the intention of committing suicide. The screams of a negro, who was in the cell with Levy, distracted her attention for a moment. Before she had time to pull the trigger two policemen grappled with her and tore the weapon from her hand.

MEXICAN EDITOR SCORES AMERICANS

Contrasts Appearances at the Diaz-Taft Meeting.

Mexico City, Oct. 29.—An editor of El Kaskabel of Guadalajara, one of the leading provincial newspapers of Mexico, attended the Diaz-Taft meeting at El Paso and published an editorial which is causing much comment in official circles of this country. He says: "Remembering the excursion of the white squadron through all the seas, an excursion that cost millions of dollars and was solely an extravagance of ostentation to acquaint the world of the wealth of the Yankees, I had hoped that the executive Taft would bring to the frontier a regiment of soldiers splendidly dressed, a good battery of artillery and a resplendent staff; but no, senor there was indeed a sad contrast. While our President went adorned in his grand uniform of a general, made in Paris at a cost of 25,000 francs, President Taft wore a suit that did not seem to be his own, due to its looseness, his collar was wilted by perspiration and there was not the slightest impression of elegance. He went in a coach (it might have been one of public hire), while our president rode in a splendid landau and the Mexican soldiers were in gala dress, with well-polished shoes and well-brushed clothes. Those of our neighbor were in leggins, yellow shoes, khaki clothes and, what is the worst of all, in undershirts.

"How shall this American negligee be interpreted? Was it to make evident the freedom of the Yankee? Was it to contrast the simplicity of the opulent with the splendor of the poor? Or might it not have been to signify the little importance that they conceded to the ceremony?"

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

SUCKERS EVERYWHERE.

(Kokomo Tribune.)

About thirty-five local people, whose names are considerately withheld, and who insist that they will know better next time, have asked the local police to find one Charles E. Morris for them. Mr. Morris is a citizen of the wide world. He has left town, and probably the country, and from each of the disgruntled thirty-five he carried a souvenir in the shape of a nice new ten dollar bill, good and lawful money of the United States.

The police say that Morris is a land shark and a gold brick artist, and so do the thirty-five with whom he did business. His specialty was selling farm lands and giving away railroad tickets. The plan, as outlined by the victims to the police, is about as transparently weak as any that has been ever projected here, but it seems that Morris had small difficulty in getting victims.

Morris was selling Wyoming farm land, along the line of the Union Pacific railroad. For payment of ten dollars he turned over to the purchaser a note, a duplicate of one he required, and an instrument that might have been a contract, or a receipt, or a deed, partaking somewhat of all three, and resembling none of them in some particulars.

The police have one of these strange instruments. It deposes that a local victim paid to "said Charles E. Morris" $10, which was to be taken as first payment on 160 acres of land along the railroad in "Section 14, township 12, Wyoming." That is absolutely all the description given. Subjoined is the agreement that $150 is to be paid in two years' time for the rest of the property. This brings Wyoming land, called "raw land" in the contract, down to a price of a dollar an acre, on easy payments.

But that is not all. Mr. Morris agreed to pay the way of any purchaser to Wyoming to look at the land and see that it was really there. This, too, was set forth in the wonderful contract. All you had to do was to take the contract and show it to the conductor on the Rock Island train out of Chicago, and then to the conductor on the Union Pacific out of Denver, and all that the train had would be yours. No fare to pay, no tickets to worry about, nothing to bother you.

You had to pay your own fare back unless you bought the land. Mr. Morris was obdurate on this point. Even the wonderful contract would not be good on the east-bound trip.

YOUNG MEN HOSTS.

(Connersville Examiner.)

One of the most pleasant social affairs ever enjoyed in Connersville was the banquet at the Commercial club last night when the "old men" of the club were the guests of the young men.

It was the first attempt of the young men, and they set a fast pace for whoever may undertake to be hosts hereafter. It was a magnificent success, every detail of the affair being worked out to perfection, and those having charge of the matter received and are entitled to the warmest congratulations.

Time and space forbid reference to every detail of last night's affair, though the occasion is entitled to it. The decorating committee did a wonderfully good job; the refreshment committee was equally as efficient, while the program committee did better than they knew they were doing when they arranged their part of the entertainment.

The young people who responded to the several toasts certainly did themselves proud. Their efforts were simply great. The guests had been promised some surprises, and these promises were made good.

Ned Tatman was the toastmaster, and a better selection could not have been made. His conduct of the affair was perfect and many an older head will have to doff his hat to Mr. Tatman when he undertakes this job

Bees Laxative Cough Syrup is so highly recommended, because it not only moves the bowels gently and thereby stops the cold, but it also allays inflammation of the lungs and throat. It is pleasant to take. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

O. P. C. H. Tacoma, Washington

Rushville

Dear Sirs:

I took my Blue Suit down to a Tacoma Tailor to get it pressed and when I went to get it he said. ''May I ask who made this suit.'' I informed him that I did not know who made it but that I bought it back east. He then said, ''It wasn't ready-made was it?'' I replied that it certainly was and he again said ''It's a mighty nifty suit for a ready-made.'' Now believe me O.P.C.H. I agree with him.

Your Friend.

REVISION WILL BE BOTH WAYS

Complete Change in I. & C. Passenger Traffics to Take Effect About November 15.

SOME HIGHER, SOME LOWER

Roud-Trip Tickets Will be Sold and Cash Fare Will be Same as One-Way Ticket.

A complete revision of its passenger tariffs will be made by the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company about November 15. The one-way fares will, in general, be about the same as the present cash fares on limited cars. In some instances, they will be slightly higher and in others slightly lower, but in no cases, even for short rides, will they exceed the rates allowed by the laws governing steam railroads in Indiana. By the revision there will be no difference in fares limited and local cars.

The present practice of selling one-way tickets at less than the cash fare demanded of the passenger who boards the car without a ticket, will be discontinued. There will, however, be a reduction on round-trip tickets. At present round-trip tickets are not sold. Tickets will be good for one year, but may be used only for the ride and in the direction for which they are sold.

Two kinds of monthly commutation books, for the use of the individual purchaser, will be placed on sale. One kind will be good for sixty trips—thirty round trips, during the month after sale, and the other kind will be good for forty trips—twenty round trips, during the month after sale.

The 60 trip commutation book referred to will be sold at half rate—plus $1.50 if good to or from Indianapolis. The 40 trip book will be sold at five-eighths rate—plus $1.00 if good to or from Indianapolis.

The difference in the table below are necessary in order to equalize these fares with other fares, in a plan to put all on the same mileage basis. The round trip rates will be made from double the one way by deducting an exact 10 per cent up to 20 cents one way. Above 20 cents one way there will be deducting 10 per cent. adding enough when necessary to make amount end in "0" or "5."

The only rides of any consequence for which fares will be different from the present limited cash fare are as follows:

Between Indianapolis and Connersville, 10 cents increase.

Between Indianapolis and Rushville, 5 cents increase.

Between Indianapolis and Greensburg, 5 cents increase.

Between Shelbyville and Fairland, 5 cents increase.

Between Rushville and Glenwood 5 cents decrease.

Between Indianapolis and London, 5 cents decrease.

Between Indianapolis and Fairland, 5 cents decrease.
